National Leadership Conference

By: Bridget Barrett, Historian

Congratulations to all those who will be moving on to the National Leadership Conference. This year it will be held in Orlando, Florida at the beautiful Swan and Dolphin hotel. From May 9th through May 14th.

There are many different opportunities that the National Leadership Conference offers, that everyone should take advantage of. There are many different types of workshops, which cover a variety of topics. In addition to many open events, and the opportunity to help choose our new national officers. Let's support our state president, Princess Achobang, as she runs for national office. Capitalize on all of the different things Florida has to offer, like Disney, Universal Studios, and the beach.

I wish you all the best luck! Enjoy yourself and really make this trip memorable, use some networking skills and meet some new people from all over the United States.
